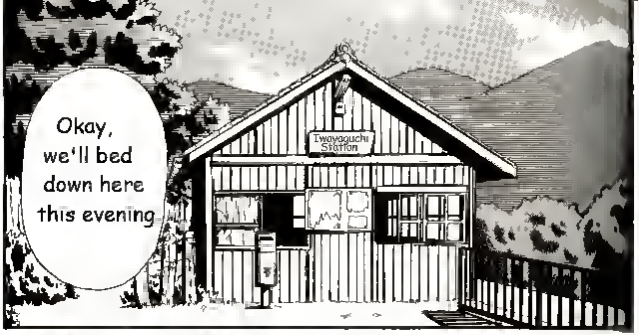
Senior please do something about him
Something is rattling
Ah...
In my head...
Either one is fine.
But I am an android.
What are you talking about?



'Standard Rice'

There's no outlet here! How do you expect to use that rice cooker?!
Moron!!
I also have a rice cooker
Don't give me that look
Cheeky creep
He's washing the rice.

You think so?
He's back to his old self!
Well!

Notes

Chapter Title

The name of the chapter is an homage to a 1962 Toho comedy film "The Age of Japanese Irresponsibility", and the protagonist of said film, Hitoshi Taira, who is supposed to be the most irresponsible man in all of Japan.

P 96

The chant that Tawaba and the others are performing is from another 60s movie from Toho, this time Honda Ishirou's "King Kong vs. Godzilla". The chant is used in the movie to calm down King Kong by the native people on Faro Island. It's even used in the main title. If you want to hear the original, it's on YouTube. http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=kjqY7t4fHQA Tawaba is very dramatic, it seems.
